WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway was appointed today to succeed Gen. Eisenhower as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe.

President Truman announced at the same time the appointment of Gen. Mark W. Clark to succeed Ridgway as the U. N. Commander in Korea and Commander in Chief of the U. S. Armed Forces in the Far East.

Gruenther Stays
Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther will continue as chief of staff to the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe. This is the post he has held under Eisenhower.

Truman said in a statement: "I have every confidence that Generals Ridgway and Gruenther will make an outstanding team for our common defense effort. Ridgway's appointment and Eisenhower's release as Supreme Allied commander will become effective approximately June 1.

The President said he was continuing Gruenther as chief of staff "in accordance with Gen. Ridgway's desires."

Gen. Clark is now commander of Army field forces at Fort Monroe, Va.

Gen. Hodge Shifted
The President said Clark will continue in the Far East "policies which have been so able carried out by Gen. Ridgway with regard to the United Nations action in Korea, including, if possible, the achievement of an honorable armistice."

The army announced that

Three Arrested To Save Girl, 20

ODESSA, Tex. — (AP) — A weak "yes" from critically injured Grace Marie Olliff and arrest of three relatives resulted in the pretty 20-year-old divorcee's getting a blood transfusion.

Officers jailed her two Brooklyn, N. Y., brothers and her father from nearby Midland, Tex., on charges of disturbing the peace. Members of Jehovah's Witnesses, they had objected for days to the transfusion because "it would be a violation of the scriptures of the Bible to tamper with blood."

William Olliff, 51, the father and Ben, 23, and John, 27, had alternated at guarding the girl's room at the Medical Center (Eckow county) hospital.

They were jailed after a scuffle and loud shouting in the hospital room yesterday as attendants prepared for the first of multiple transfusions ordered by doctors.

"You're trying to kill my girl," the father shouted.

Before the transfusion, doctors said the girl was near death but rational when she gained consciousness briefly yesterday. A doctor said she answered "yes" when asked if she wanted the transfusions and "no" when asked if she was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses. Her relatives had said she was a member.

Today radio appeals were to be made for blood donations for additional transfusions.

Randit Kills Detroit Youth In Car; Fiancee Critically Wounded

DETROIT — (AP) — State Police sent out a nationwide alarm today for the gunman who shot a Detroit youth to death, wounded his fiancee critically and fled his victim's car.

Killed in the robbery attack Saturday was 19-year-old Calvin Williams, son of a Detroit (Negro) contractor.

His fiancee, Patricia Jane Stevenson, 19, was shot through the head and between periods of unconsciousness could give police only a meager description of the gunman.

The man had forced his way into Williams' car at gunpoint Saturday in downtown Detroit and ordered Williams to drive to the city's outskirts.

He robbed the youth, shot the two and left them for dead by the side of the road. Williams and Miss Stevenson had planned to be married June 8.

Mayor Recovering

DETROIT — (AP) — Mayor Albert E. Cobo was reported resting well today at Henry Ford hospital. Cobo, 58, suffered a heart attack Thursday night. One of the doctors indicated that Cobo is impatient to be up and about.

Deputy Warden Fox Fired At Jackson Prison

JACKSON, Mich. — (AP) — The young psychologist who negotiated the agreement that ended a five-day bloody mutiny at Southern Michigan Prison here no longer is assistant deputy warden.

Dr. Vernon Fox, 36, was transferred by state correction commissioner Earnest C. Brooks "for the time being."

Brooks acted Saturday night a few hours after prison guards demanded Fox's firing, plus "adequate protection" from armed State Troopers inside the prison.

Feels Pretty Low
Fox, broadcasting over the prison's loudspeaker system, congratulated the mutineers who won 11 concessions from the state before surrendering and freeing eight guards held as hostages. He spoke within the hour before the 4 p. m. Thursday capitulation previously agreed to by 170-odd tough mutineers, hold-out saying "this may presage a new era of good, sound inter-relationships between inmates and administration in American prisons."

Asked how he felt about being relieved as assistant deputy warden, Fox said: "Pretty low."

Then he added:

"I do not believe the public realizes that it (the broadcast) was a propaganda device, made before the surrender and made to effect it."

Governor Williams, who quick-checked efforts to restore order at the 6,490-inmate prison yesterday, reported that "the situation is improving gradually."

Damage In Millions
He did not go into the prison, where rioters caused damage estimated at more than $2,000,000 in their Sunday - Thursday rioting. He conferred, instead, with State Police assigned to give armed protection to the unarmed guards inside the prison.

Yale Rubber Plant Destroyed Sunday In $1,000,000 Fire

SANDUSKY, Mich. — (AP) — A $1,000,000 fire destroyed the plant of the Yale Rubber Co., here Sunday. The board of directors voted immediately afterward to start rebuilding at once.

Cause of the blaze, believed to have started in a laboratory, was not determined. The plant was empty at the time.

Fire departments from Sandusky and six neighboring towns were able to save the plant's nearby warehouse, containing an estimated $200,000 worth of natural rubber and materials.

The loss estimate was made by the board of directors, who estimated approximately two-thirds is covered by insurance.

The plant, which makes rubber parts for automotive and defense industries, normally employs about 325 workers. It was moved here four years ago from Yale, Mich.

Court Ruling Awaited In Steel Mill Seizure

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The great constitutional battle over President Truman's three-week-old seizure of the steel industry roared on today — with Truman himself saying he had a right and duty to take over the mills. The legal question was in the hands of Federal Judge David A. Pine in a case brought by the steel industry to force the government to surrender the seized facilities.

Admits Powers Limited
Judge Pine, after taking the case under advisement last Friday, kept busy over the weekend considering the historic legal arguments. His ruling could come today, but may be delayed until tomorrow or Wednesday.

President Truman, in correspondence released by the White House last night, appeared to take a narrower view of Presidential powers than government attorneys did in arguments before Pine.

Truman said executive powers are "limited, of course, by the provisions of the Constitution, particularly those that protect the rights of individuals." He said it was proper that the courts now are examining the legality of the situation, but that:

"I feel sure that the Constitution does not require me to endanger our national safety by letting all the steel mills shut down in this critical time."

Pay Raise Held Up
Holmes Baldridge, handling government argument to uphold seizure powers, told Judge Pine last Friday that the nation's chief executive had unlimited authority under the constitution and the courts could not interfere.

U. S. General Court Martialed For Letting Reds Copy Diary

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Army today brought court martial charges against Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow, former military attaché in Moscow whose diary was copied by Communist agents in Germany last year.

The Army announcement by Secretary Pace said that Grow had been charged with "improperly recording classified military information in private records and failing properly to safeguard classified military information."

The Army announced this step, Pace said, after investigations here and abroad.

Grow had written in the diary that he thought war with Russia

Mad Michigan Lawmakers Will Return May 1

LANSING — (AP) — Michigan's Legislature will return May 1 — mad.

Staring the economy-minded Republican lawmakers in the face will be demands for an as-yet-un-calculated bill for the disastrous riot at the Southern Michigan prison.

If that isn't enough to make Legislators' blood boil, there will be waiting Governor Williams' vetoes of several tax measures — topped late Saturday with his veto of the Higgins "used car use tax" on which the Legislature had counted to raise $12,000,000 for the cash-short state general fund.

Moves to override the vetoes probably will be made, but they probably are doomed since the Democrats have sufficient votes in the House to block the necessary two-thirds majority needed to upset the governor's veto.

Williams also has vetoed a bill to change the tax on liquor from a sales tax to a "service fee" to put the money in the general fund.

Late Saturday Williams vetoed the used car tax, contending it was unconstitutional on two counts.

He said it would be challenged on the grounds that it took sales tax diversion money away from the schools and local governments and also it might clash with a provision that all motor vehicle taxes must go into the highway fund under constitutional mandate.

Officials of both House and Senate have asked their chambers to return May 1 to consider the bill for the prison riots.

Some Legislators already have expressed criticism of the handling of the riots.

Son Not Dead, Found In Prison

HOUSTON, Tex. — (AP) — A tearful mother from Owana, Ia., expected to see her 15-year-old convict son today and possibly take him back to the family farm. She had thought him dead.

Mrs. Edna Fletcher arrived here last night hopeful that she can get the young son out of the Texas prison system's Central Prison Farm Number 1, near Houston, and take him home.

The son, Herbie Fletcher, was sentenced to 10 years for robbery in Georgetown, Tex., and Fairfield, Tex., and was tried as an adult after telling authorities he was 17 years old.

Had he told his correct age he would have been handled as a juvenile offender.

The family had supposed Herbie drowned Oct. 15, 1951, after his bicycle had been found on the banks of the Missouri river at Decatur, Neb., a town near his Iowa farm home.

A week ago, the family received a letter from Central Prison Farm that asked so many personal questions that the parents guessed it was from their son.

It was signed William H. Adams, the name Herbie had given of officers and the name under which he was committed to prison.

The Fletchers wrote the warden and Herbie admitted his identity.

The Army released portions of the German book containing these quotations attributed to Grow:

"War! As soon as possible! Now!"

"Our attack should be directed at enemy weakness. Although the military services are primarily concerned with military weapons and methods, we must understand that this war is total war and is fought with all weapons."

"We must learn that in this war it is fair to hit below the belt."

Grow was in Frankfurt for what the Army said was a medical checkup when Communist agents apparently photographed portions of his diary.

Oil Industry Menaced By Nationwide Strike

DENVER — (AP) — The threat of a nationwide strike hovered over the oil industry today as the Oil Workers International Union (CIO) completed final preparations for a walkout, slated to begin at 12:01 a. m. local time, Wednesday.

A major portion of the industry would be affected by the strike which could virtually paralyze the nation's output of gas and oil.

A 26-man policy committee met at Denver Headquarters of the union yesterday to lay plans for the walkout. Following the meeting the union issued a statement signed by OWIU president O. A. Knight, which stated, in part:

"Final plans for a nationwide strike have been completed. It will go on unless collective bargaining produces a satisfactory settlement of the wage dispute before the deadline hour."

The strike originally was slated for March 3, but was postponed three times at government request.

Full Independence Given Japan Today As Russia Protests

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States put the Japanese peace treaty into effect today, and Soviet Russia immediately denounced it and the accompanying American-Japanese security pact as "treaties for the preparation of a new war in the Far East."

The Russian government assailed the two pacts in a statement made public by Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin 30 minutes after the two treaties went into effect.

The peace treaty, returning independence to Japan after nearly seven years of Allied occupation, was brought into force when the U. S. deposited its ratification at the state department.

This was an 11-minute ceremony which included reading of a statement from President Truman hailing the reborn nation as a valiant ally in the struggle against "Communist imperialism and aggression in the Pacific."

Japan's Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida declared the Japanese people "can meet the challenge of our times."

The Russians fired their statement from the Soviet embassy.

Pact Called Illegal
Panyushkin called the peace an "illegal separate peace treaty with Japan" concluded in violation of the Big Four Moscow conference of 1945.

He added:

"The conclusion of this treaty shows how far the United States government has gone in its policy of converting Japan into the United States military bridgehead in the Far East."

Panyushkin's denunciation was in the form of a 100-word letter to Maxwell Hamilton, American chairman of the 13-nation Far Eastern commission.

Panyushkin is Russia's representative on this group.

In his letter, Panyushkin also

Swanky State Cars Criticized

LANSING — (AP) — The state should stop providing expensive cars for state officials, a "Little Hoover Commission" task force asserted today.

The staff recommended the state limit its car purchases to those of the low-priced so-called "Big Three" manufacturers, saying there was no need to provide more expensive cars except for "display" purposes or to satisfy the vanity of some officials.

The report also criticized permitting 42 state cars to operate without the "state-owned" license plates or identifying seal of Michigan. It also said the mileage checks on these indicate many are being used for personal trips.

The committee said the Legislature should stop regarding the state motor pool as a "police" agency and regard it as a service agency only, forcing state agency heads to be responsible for the abuse of state cars.

State car costs would be reduced, the experts said, if the state would permit employees using state autos to drive them for personal business and repay the state for those costs.

Destroyer Sinks After Ramming Carrier Wasp

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The destroyer-minesweeper Hobson crashed into the aircraft carrier Wasp Saturday night and sank in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. The Navy said today it has called off the search for 176 seamen listed as missing.

It was one of the worst Naval disasters in this nation's history. The Navy department said the air and sea search for survivors was called off at sundown yesterday.

Bound for Mediterranean
There were no casualties reported on the Wasp. Sixty-one seamen on the 1,600-ton Hobson were listed as rescued.

Both the Wasp and the Hobson had distinguished records in World War Two. They were en route to the Mediterranean as part of a United States task force.

The collision took place 1,200 miles due east of Boston and 700 miles west of the Azores. The Navy said the seas were choppy and the weather murky. It described the conditions as near-stormy.

The ships were taking part in night maneuvers, a normal routine. The collision took place shortly before midnight Saturday, which was around 8:25 p. m. EST. The first official word of the crash came shortly before noon, EST, on Sunday.

All Records Lost
A Navy department spokesman said the search was called off because planes and ships in the area of the sinking had "ample time to search the waters."

But the department studiously declined to list the victims as

Jet Kills Three In British Town

ST. PETER'S, KENT, Eng. — (AP) — A burning U. S. Thunderbolt fighter crashed into the main street bank building of this little southeast England town yesterday, killing the American pilot and an elderly British couple.

The explosion collapsed the bank structure in flames which flashed into an adjoining home, critically burning a housewife as she cooked her Sunday dinner.

Awings and shop signs were fired and many windows were smashed, but the street was virtually deserted. Hundreds were at church services only a short distance from the crash.

The pilot, whose body was hurled into a yard adjoining the destroyed building, was identified only as Capt. Clifford Froggarty, 29. The dead couple, found in the ruins, were in their apartment above the bank offices.

The plane crashed shortly after taking off on a training flight from the U. S. Air Force base at Manston, some four miles away. Watchers said the plane caught fire and tried to get back to the base but rapidly lost height and crashed.

Truce Deadlock Solutions Given

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
MUNSAN — (AP) — The United Nations Command today gave the Communists what it called an "overall solution" to the three critical issues blocking a Korean armistice.

Details were not disclosed. But the Communists, after agreeing to keep the full dress negotiations secret, asked for an indefinite recess. Presumably they want to submit the plan to Peiping and Pyongyang.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. spokesman, said:

"The United Nations Command feels that an overall solution was proposed today."

It was handed to the Communists at the first meeting of the main Allied and Communist armistice delegations in Panmunjom in more than two months.

Blocking progress in the 9½ months of truce negotiations are the issues of prisoner exchange, nomination of Russia by the Reds as a neutral observer during any armistice and a U. N. demand for restrictions on air field construction.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior U. N. negotiator, proposed at the outset of the plenary session that the discussions be secret. This meant that there would be no announcement of what takes place.

The Communists, after thinking it over for a half hour, agreed.

Veteran Cancels Leap From Steeple To Beat Taunting Spectator

NEW YORK — (AP) — A 23-year-old Air Force veteran threatened to jump from a 55-foot church steeple, but climbed down to fight a spectator who questioned his courage.

While hundreds of rain-soaked people watched and prayed, the veteran, Joseph Saccomano, perched near the top of the steeple of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in the Bronx yesterday.

Women spread nets below. Police and clergy pleaded vainly for nearly an hour with him to come down.

"I'm going to jump if you come up," he cried. "Let me alone."

Then a man leaning from a third-story window across the street began to abuse the youth, shouting insults and taunts. Saccomano finally could stand it no longer.

"I'll come down and beat your brains out," he cried.

Police grabbed him as he descended a ladder and sent him to a hospital. He was released later to the custody of relatives.

Meat-Hungry Israeli Get Beef; Can't Eat It

JERUSALEM — (AP) — A 3,000-ton serving of tasty beef may be scratched from the meat-skinny Israel menu because it isn't kosher.

The chief Rabbinate said the beef, from Argentina, wasn't handled under Rabbinical supervision which would insure its conformity to religious standards.

The Ministry of Trade now must decide whether to stick by strict Jewish religious laws and prohibit the meat's use or satisfy the yearnings of the people — long starved for good steaks.

Fair Board Pledges Its Full Support To Building Extension

"One hundred per cent cooperation" in the Escanaba project to extend the exhibition building at the U. P. state fair was pledged by the Upper Peninsula State Fair Board at its annual meeting here.

"We will do whatever is possible to be of service in gaining final approval of the extension," the board's resolution read.

Plans for a 60-foot extension of the present exhibition building to the north are being drawn by Kenneth Angelloff, civil engineer with the Escanaba truck crane plant of Harnischfeger corporation and a director of the Escanaba Hockey association, which initiated the project.

Plans for both a concrete block construction and a wood structure are being drawn. They will be cleared through the U. P. fair board and sent to A. N. Langius, director of the state building division, for approval. It will be determined then which plan will be feasible for the proposed extension.

No Cost to Fair Board

Einar Erlandson, state representative, reported on his return from a trip to Lansing that Langius said quantities of steel are available from other state properties in Lower Michigan and concrete blocks could be procured from the Marquette prison without cost. Blocks are made by inmates at the Marquette prison and could be obtained only for transportation costs, he said.

Local industries will provide transportation for concrete blocks if that type structure is approved, it was brought out. It is believed the extension can be accomplished without cost to the fair board. Industries in this area and civic leaders are cooperating to provide the extension.

In its resolution approving the extension, the board said "the purpose of the extension of the exhibition building is to provide more space for educational and industrial displays and to make the building conform to near regulation size for such sporting events as ice hockey, figure skating and others."

Would Have Many Uses

"The enlarged building also will enable the use of its facilities in case of rain during the season. The building could be used for entertainment features of the fair whenever the grandstand facilities could not be used."

John MacInnis, secretary-manager of the U. P. fair, said the board plans to make year-round use of an enlarged exhibition building.

"It would be available for all types of entertainments where crowds of up to 2,500 would gather. It also would be an ideal place for large meetings and conferences and musical concerts," he pointed out.

Expressing itself as unanimously in favor of the project, the board requested that all matters in connection with the extension be cleared through the U. P. fair board.

"Plans, proposals and so forth must conform with state regulations to the fullest extent and there must be a thorough understanding between labor unions and management of industries who have offered their services" toward this community project, the resolution stated.

Conform To Regulations

The local group working toward procuring the extension is working in full cooperation with the U. P. State Fair Board, the proper state departments and with the Governor of Michigan, and all plans will conform with state regulations, a spokesman for the group emphasized.

Members of the U. P. fair board attending the annual session were Victor Lemmer, Ironwood; Earl Allingham, Escanaba; Ben Miller, Hancock; John Niks, Munising, Winners were awarded fishing equipment.

A large crowd of persons from all sections of the Upper Peninsula attended the fish fry, the Barber Shop Concert, and the Festival Ball. Many perch fishermen were reported to have made large catches in the Nahma Millpond.

Car Hits Tree, Driver Injured

Paul Goymierac, 24, of 937 Sheridan road, was injured at 2:15 a. m. today when the car he was driving plunged off Lake Shore Drive in the 2200 block and crashed into a fence and trees.

Police reported Goymierac suffered a dislocated hip, bruises, shock, and lacerations over one eye. He is receiving treatment in St. Francis Hospital.

Goymierac was driving east on Lake Shore Drive when his car left the roadway on the right side. After knocking over two mail boxes the car crossed the road, went an additional 146 feet and moved down 15 feet of fence and four trees. It came to stop among the trees.

The driver will be issued a ticket for reckless driving, police said.

Must Confine Dogs On May 1

Escanaba's dog ordinance goes into effect May 1 and from that date to Oct. 1 all dogs must be confined on the owner's premises or on leash.

Safety Director Glen Leonard said today the police will obtain the names of dog owners who permit their pets to stray in violation of the ordinance and bring the owners into court.

The police have received many complaints concerning stray dogs in the city in the past several weeks. A score or more persons, mostly children, have been bitten, it is reported to police.

Latest dog bite cases were reported over the weekend and the dogs have been ordered confined for ten days for rabies observation.

Billy Whitney, six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Whitney of 1616 First Ave. S., was bitten Saturday by a dog owned by Martin Trotter, 322 South 16th St., and Leroy Kostke, 10, of 111 South Fifth St., was bitten by a dog owned by Louis Pracey, of the 400 block, Ludington.

Upper Peninsula Plays Leading Role In Fight Against Cancer

THE annual Cancer Fund campaign is under way and volunteer workers are ringing doorbells of their neighbors to solicit contributions for the fight against cancer.

It is significant, we believe, that the Upper Peninsula district of the Michigan Cancer Society is one of six units in the entire United States to be cited for outstanding service in 1951. The citation has been won on the basis of the cooperative effort in support of the cytological laboratory at Menominee and the progress that is being made throughout the area in detecting cancer in its early stages.

The Upper Peninsula district has earned a nationwide honor for its work. It is fitting that special credit be given to Mrs. George Gilbert of Escanaba whose work in organizing the cancer crusade not only in Delta county but elsewhere in the Upper Peninsula has been a major factor in the success of the Upper Peninsula district.

The Cancer Society has materially reduced the cost of detecting cancer through its work in the cytological laboratory at Menominee and with the cooperation of the doctors in the area. Wet smear kits are made available by the Cancer Society without charge and the tests, made by family physicians, are processed at the Menominee laboratory. Early diagnosis of cancer has proved to be the most effective means of combating this disease.

When your neighbors call upon you to solicit funds in the Cancer fight, be as generous as you can. You may be helping to save your own life or the lives of your loved ones.

The Upper Peninsula has tangible proof of the value and the benefits of the Cancer Society.

Let's Get Going On St. Lawrence Seaway

AMERICAN railroads, opposing the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway, shrug off the argument that the proposed seaway would open low cost transportation of iron ore from the newly developed Labrador mines to the American steel mills. The railroads reply is that this ore production, estimated at 10,000,000 tons annually, could be handled by rail from east coast ports of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Montreal.

Even assuming that the railroads have or can get the facilities to handle this volume of ore from eastern ports to the steel centers of the Middle West, the cost of moving this Labrador ore to the steel mills by rail would be greatly in excess of the transportation costs by boat through the proposed St. Lawrence seaway.

The ore movement, of course, is only one argument for the seaway. There was justification for the St. Lawrence waterway long before the Labrador ore fields were discovered. The iron ore discovery only made the seaway more urgent and more necessary.

No project of the importance to this country of the St. Lawrence seaway has been delayed through obstructionist tactics as long as this one. The time is at hand to get going on the construction of the waterway, not only for the transportation advantages it provides but also for the tremendous amount of electric power that will be produced.

Questions and Answers

Q—How did the late Mrs. Elizabeth Meriwether Gilmer explain her selection of a pen name?

A—For a nom de plume, Mrs. Gilmer chose Dorothy Dix because "Dorothy" sounded sensible and coined "Dix" from the name of a family servant, Dick, whose wife called him Mr. Dicks.

Q—Can any one sign an act of Congress for the President?

A—The President alone can sign an act of Congress, but ways have been devised of relieving him of the heavy duty of signing messages of routine orders and other papers.

UNCLE EF

Aunt Molly Harmsworth says Queen Juliana certainly has plenty to tell her neighbors in Holland about bad manners and rowing in the American family. Morris and McGrath were fired in Washington right under her nose and the steel row became a mess. The Queen smiled through it all, but she must have thought everybody had a lot of Dutch up in her honor.

The Doctor Says . . . Hearing Aids Recommended In Case Of Slight Hearing Loss

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Too many people who have lost some of their ability to hear well put off using hearing aids. Sometimes this is because they do not know their hearing has suffered. Often the family and friends of a person who is slightly deaf become aware of the hearing difficulty long before the patient does himself.

Many people who are slightly deaf for some reason feel that wearing a hearing aid hurts their pride. This is curious, because it is no more the patient's fault when the hearing becomes less acute than it is when one develops defective vision and wears glasses.

Loss of hearing of different tones usually is not equal, just as hearing loss may not be equal in both ears. Many people, for example, can continue to hear low tones just about as well as ever even after their ability to hear high tones has become seriously impaired.

Hearing is often better some days than others. A person who is slightly deaf may be able to hear spoken voices well in a relatively quiet room, but may hardly be able to hear anything when there is noise in the background, such as the noise of street cars or elevated trains.

Hearing for such things as symphonic music may be retained after ordinary business conversation has become exceedingly difficult.

DESK ANCHORS (Christian Science Monitor)

The Navy is weighted down by more than ammunition to sling at Korean shores. It bears in addition a burden of 48,000 new paperweights every year. We are assured, however, that this load is growing steadily lighter. Assistant Secretary H. R. Askins has told Congress "the trend of issue of paperweights in the Navy is definitely downward." Can this mean that there is less red tape to bring letters with fourth, fifth, and sixth "endorsements" coming to anchor on naval desks? Or has a system been devised to put more papers under fewer weights?

At any rates we can be reasonably certain and no "top secret" documents will be wafted out of naval windows or port-holes some sunny morning. Not while they are resting under a mountain of 12,000 "properly designed paperweights" made from "non-critical materials," and issued every three months.

BEER CANS WON'T MELT (See Evening News)

The melting snows have left numerous wonderful sights for the Sunday motorist. Along the highways green bladelets of grass are struggling for life; the pussy willows are in bloom, and flanking the pavement on both sides mile after mile is a veritable jeweled necklace of beer cans and bottles scintillating in the spring sunlight.

As a matter of fact in some places the blades of grass have a double struggle attempting to find air and light amidst the rubble.

The highway department cannot be blamed for this condition, because from appearances we feel that it might require all available equipment to pick up the tons and tons of debris which bespoil the landscape.

This problem is not unique in Chippewa county alone, as the same type of highway markers dot the pavements the length of the Upper Peninsula and for miles in most any direction below the Straits.

Unfortunately it is the motorist himself who is to blame for this condition. How else could the debris get where it is?

The considerate traveler, if he has to drink beer while motoring, could carry the empties home with him and dispose of it with his household garbage.

Residents of this area could lead the way in a movement to clean up the highways.

Beer cans won't melt with the spring snows.

BREHM CONVICTION UPHOLD

Last week the U. S. Court of Appeals upheld the conviction of Rep. Walter E. Brehm, Ohio Republican, on charges of taking illegal salary kickbacks from his stenographer. Drew Pearson began an expose of Congressman Brehm's operations on Sept. 26, 1950, revealing kickbacks to the congressman for the first time.

Brehm threatened to sue, calling Pearson a liar, but Pearson continued to print more facts about Brehm's kickbacks until a jury found him guilty last April. He was fined $5,000 and given a 5-to-15 months suspended jail sentence, which he appealed. On Thursday, April 24, however, the Court of Appeals upheld the Ohio congressman's conviction.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It was supposed to be kept "confidential and unfiled," but a prospective delegate recently hit Senator Kefauver of Tennessee for "expense money" in return for his support at the Democratic convention.

The would-be delegate is Warner Bloomberg of Gary, Ind., who hinted significantly that expenses at the 1948 convention ran around $1,000 per delegate. But he solicited the wrong candidate in crime-busting Senator Kefauver, who may end up investigating instead of paying him.

Bloomberg made his shocking request for money in a confidential letter, dated March 28, to Kefauver's campaign headquarters.

"I would prefer that this letter be kept confidential and unfiled," Bloomberg wrote cautiously. "I have been approached by some friends of mine who have long been active in the Indiana Democratic party. . . They indicated to me that they would be happy to bring about my selection as one of Indiana's delegates to the national convention. Of course, there is always that slip between cup and lip in politics of this sort—but the offer presents a good possibility. I have tentatively accepted."

The Indiana ward heeler then got down to business.

BACKGROUND DELEGATE
"Because of the expense involved — it was estimated at $1,000 per delegate in 1948 — it is often difficult to get anyone to take the job in such 'poor' districts as the second, where I live. . . While I can take care of any personal expenses in Chicago and I am willing to sacrifice a week's loss in pay, I understand that there are fees or contributions or some such running into several hundred dollars which would be a very heavy burden for me. I probably could solicit some funds from friends. Can national headquarters make up the rest, presuming I am elected?"

Queried by this column, Bloomberg explained that he needed the money to pay a $200 registration fee. The Democratic national committee denied, however, that convention delegates are charged any fees or contributions. Bloomberg admitted to this column that he lived only 37 miles from Chicago, that he could room with friends during the convention and that he expected financial help from his labor union or the local Democratic organization. So Senator Kefauver would like to know what is at the bottom of this strange request for a financial touch "running into several hundred dollars."

Bloomberg confessed to this column that his letter had been a "political error," but denied that he had any "ulterior motives."

"I am just a political amateur," he pleaded. "I didn't ask Senator Kefauver for any money. I asked Jack O'Brien (Kefauver's campaign manager) if he could help me out. After all, he isn't entirely poverty-stricken."

In his letter to Kefauver headquarters, Bloomberg also added that "For the time being, I would have to remain in the background of the campaign for Kefauver in this state."

Kefauver, however, indicated that he is not interested in subsidizing delegates, though he would like to catch someone trying it.

Note—The Republican party in the South is notorious for the system of "buying" delegates, and now it looks as if the system were spreading. The truth is that the American people may elect a President, but they have little to say about nominating him. Delegates such as Bloomberg are usually hand-picked, listen to the party bosses or the highest bidder, not the people. To get the views of the American people, this column has been conducting a post-card poll. Write your choice for Democratic candidate on the back of a post card and mail it to Box 1952, Washington, D. C. The Republican poll showed Eisenhower 49 per cent, Taft 36 per cent.

Air Job Without Glamor Choking Off Communist Build-Up In Korea

By ROBERT S. JOHNSON

Written for NEA Service

FARMINGDALE, N. Y.—(NEA)

—One of the most unglamorous jobs ever to fall to a modern soldier is being carried out in Korea by the most glamorous of today's warriors—the fighter pilots.

Few people back home know anything about what most of our fighter pilots have been doing, since the truce talks began, to carry out what is known as "Operation Strangle." But as the parleys go into their tenth month, the one-time Sir Galahads of the air are being affectionately tagged as "flying doughnuts."

Therein lies the story behind the story of the air war in Korea—the story behind the daily headlines of aerial dogfights. For the success of "Operation Strangle" is measured not in terms of MIGs shot down but in terms of the damage to the enemy's rail and highway systems.

To a one-time fighter pilot who had made the long trip from the production line at Republic's factory in New York to the firing line south of the Yalu, this was my first introduction to the coming-of-age of tactical airpower. We had only scratched the surface of its possibilities in Europe. But we noted that it allowed Gen. Patton's ground forces to travel at record-breaking speed to the Siegfried Line.

As I watched the heavily laden Thunderjets take off from their dusty airstrips, I realized that this was the up-to-the-minute aerial version of what J. E. B. Stuart and Phil Sheridan did on horseback during the Civil War and what the German panzer divisions did in Poland—strangling the enemy's supply lines and isolating the battlefield.

The only difference is that our ground forces in Korea are involved in a holding action and are not moving northward along the dried-up veins of the Red supply network.

Back in Tokyo, Far East Air Force headquarters knows "Operation Strangle" as the strategy of "aerial interdiction."

General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, chief of the U. S. Air Staff, calls it "the main UN military objective" in Korea today. More planes and pilots are assigned to it than to any other mission in the theater. It is mounted with the utmost in coordination.

Actually, Operation Strangle is divided into two phases. There are the "upstairs" boys flying F-86 Sabrejet interceptors and there are the "downstairs" boys flying the fighter-bombers. The sole mission of the interceptors is to fly top-cover for the heavily laden fighter-bombers while these carry out the primary job.

Although the fighter-bomber pilots wryly refer to their missions as "milk runs" because they cover the same route and plaster the same targets every day, they are hardly peaceable chores. The Thunderjet pilots often have to fly at tree-top level through the heaviest flak since Hitler to reach their targets—rail lines, roads, bridges, tunnels, mountain passes.

I saw F-84s that had come back to base with holes in them several feet in diameter—tangible evidence of what the planes and pilots had gone through, and of the ability of aircraft to take it.

About Operation Strangle's success, high allied officers are enthusiastic. Lieut.-Gen. O. P. Weyland, Commanding General of the Far East Air Force, said that "the spectacular build-up of MIG activity can be taken as a direct reflection of the degree to which the enemy is being hurt by Operation Strangle."

In the 16 months that the Thunderjets have been in action over Korea, they have flown 35,000 sorties, made 5890 rail cuts, destroyed or damaged 2250 rail cars and 175 rail bridges and tunnels.

A sidelight on Operation Strangle's effectiveness was told me by an officer up front. "You know why the Reds have been willing to negotiate at all? It's because Operation Strangle has been running them out of decent cigarettes. It was bad enough when they were short of food and ammunition. But when they had to smoke Korean hay, well—that was the last straw!"

Back in the States, several people have asked me recently, "If Operation Strangle is such a big military success, why don't we read about it more often?"

The answer is as old as war itself. The stories that attract people the most are the sagas of individual combat. And there's always something thrilling about a gallant jet pilot getting his fifth MIG, and becoming an ace.

By contrast, when a fighter-bomber pilot finishes his hundredth mission, and is eligible for a rest, the only tangible evidence he has of his work is the aluminum patch that covers the spot where his plane was hit by flak.

Nobody adds up the number of rail cuts, locomotives, and bridges he has put out of commission and few are aware that a mere handful of fighter-bombers are holding and strangling the giant Chinese Red army.

Atoms From Oak Ridge Aid Science Around The World

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Skeletons of science made to order by America's atomic locksmiths are opening doors to new knowledge in many parts of the free world, the National Geographic Society reports.

These new keys are the so-called isotopes, eccentric cousins of the ordinary elements of the earth. Some are radioactive, spitting energy as powerful radiation. Others are stable variants of the natural elements, important tools in nuclear research.

Isotopes constitute the first major peacetime payoff of the ten-year atomic energy program. From Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee, center of U. S. isotope preparation and distribution, lead-lined containers and cotton-padded bottles carry these magic research tools to steaming jungles in Africa, to roaring mills in Pittsburgh and Detroit, and to quiet laboratories in scores of universities here and abroad.

Mosquitoes and Mistletoe

In Nigeria, British West Africa, test groups of mosquitoes tagged with a "hot" isotope are released and retrapped to study how far they might fly with the virus of yellow fever from a source of infection. Canadian and American scientists have used the same technique to chart the migration habits of flies.

In an Australian forest, radioisotopes track down the parasitic action of mistletoe which is slowly strangling eucalyptus trees. Plant scientists in Idaho study potato growth from radioactive tracers.

Steel is tested with isotopes. Paper pulp mixtures rolling into newsprint through giant presses are gauged by atomic calipers. Deep-seated diseases are treated with radioactive "bombs" and probes.

Scientists are putting isotopes to work in hundreds, if not thousands, of additional ways in medicine, biology, agriculture and industry. A booming peacetime industry has been built on the byproducts of the atomic age.

40th Birthday

A naturally occurring radioisotope was first used as a "tracer" only 40 years ago, in an experiment by a Danish scientist. Then, in France in 1914, it was discovered that radioactive substances could be produced artificially by bombarding stable elements with atomic particles. Cyclotrons soon were producing hundreds of different isotopes.

When the first atomic chain reaction took place in a "pile" at the University of Chicago in December, 1942, science had the means of producing radioisotopes on an unprecedented scale. They could be forged in the raging neutron fires of a nuclear reactor, far more efficiently than with the older atom smashing guns.

The Oak Ridge atomic pile, nicknamed "The Old Lady of X-10," has mothered more radioisotopes than any other reactor in the world. Some are separated from the "ashes" of its uranium fuel, as fission products. Others are tailor made, produced by inserting materials such as sulphur, iron or cobalt into the atomic furnace.

Much of Oak Ridge National Laboratory—the towering stacks, gleaming stainless steel buildings, and lead-shielded machines—has been turned to this work of peacetime science today. Since August 2, 1946, when the first radioisotope package was sent to an outside purchaser, more than 22,000 shipments have been made, plus nearly 2,000 shipments of stable isotopes separated in equipment that once produced atomic explosives.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

FROM OTHER PLANETS—After discussing Life magazine's recent report on flying saucers and the necessary conclusion that the machines came from some other planet, a friend of mine remarked grimly: "It makes me uneasy just to think of some kind of creatures from another planet watching us all the time."

Why were these little green men with six arms and seven pointed heads interested in the Earth, he wondered.

As best we could we reassured him, pointing out that no one has yet seen or described the other planet dwellers. They might be pink instead of green, for all anyone knows. And they must not mean us any harm or they would have attacked us long ago.

THE SEARCHING MIND—For many centuries men have sought to project themselves beyond the limits of the earth. This they accomplished in imagination before civilization was born.

The fanciful dreams of primitive peoples follow a pattern of wishful thinking. Gods or devils snatched man from the ground and whirled him through the reaches of the sky.

Icarus made himself a set of wings, flew from the top of a crag and perished in the sea, according to Greek legend. And some 500 years ago Leonardo Da Vinci, great painter and inventor, designed a flying machine that today's experts say would have flown had it but had a motor.

WAR OF THE WORLDS—As the motor made flying a fact, so perhaps will developments of the future make fact of present-day science fiction.

Another 50 years may bring to reality what H. G. Wells fictionalized as "The War of the Worlds."

You may recall Orson Welles broadcast of 1938 in which he dramatized over the air the H. G. Wells thriller—and started something closely akin to national hysteria.

Men from Mars were invading the earth, carried through interplanetary space in a cylinder that landed in New Jersey, the story went.

Some listeners wrapped their faces in wet towels in lieu of gas masks; scientists set out to find the Martian cylinder; at least one big newspaper assembled its staff for an invasion extra, the National Geographic Society recalls.

THE NERVOUS EDGE—Although beginning and end of the radio program clearly stated the story was fiction, frantic listeners called newspaper and police and hopelessly clogged telephone lines.

The people wanted to know the worst. With explanations, the flurry soon passed—but "scientific" hoaxes were to cause equal or worse troubles later in other lands.

In France in 1946 irate Parisians stormed a radio station and troops had to be called to protect radio personnel after a broadcast in which it was reported that a wave of disintegration set off by nuclear experiments was rolling east across the Atlantic.

The nervous edge of fear that turns to anger was experienced again in 1949.

NOT FROM MARS—At Quito, Ecuador, that year of '49, a Martian invasion broadcast brought an angry mob storming the station. The building was burned, killing 15 persons trapped inside, before troops restored order.

Latest people to be alarmed by a "Men from Mars" scare were those of Thailand. A Bangkok radio program celebrating the birthday of the Thai Royal Air Force warned that the "world is faced by calamity caused by dangerous rays from another planet."

It was hours later before all listeners were reassured that the announcement was pure fiction.

Man in reality has no enemies other than himself, and the sooner he realizes this the better it will be for him. A few men from Mars or man's conquering of space to achieve interplanetary travel may distract man from his determined course of war in this world.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

A WOMAN DISCUSSES MEN AS COOKS

I don't remember the date of the magazine; it was one I picked up in a dentist's office while waiting my turn, so it may have been an old issue. It was a woman's magazine, but there was an article on men as cooks that caught my eye, and, though the making of toast is about my own limit in the culinary line, I started to read it. Then I began to make notes, for I wondered whether the average reader would know what the author was saying. Here are some of the sentences:

"He thinks it is not germane to his argument." "It is abetted by such protagonists as Pierre de Rohan. . ." "He will have lured your fears and whetted your appetite with savory hints of his love affair with spaghetti seasoned with innuendoes. . . red wine, garlic, and rosemary." "His favorite salad was to furnish the leitmotif."

"Germane" (jur-MANE) is from Latin "germanus," which means "having the same parents, being full brothers or sisters"—an important matter in olden times when half-brothers or half-sisters were numerous. Hence, "germane" means in close relationship.

A "protagonist" (pro-TAG-uh-nist) is the opposite of an "antagonist." He is a supporter, that is, rather than an opponent. One who "whets" your appetite with "savory" hints, sharpens your appetite with favorable odors. And a love affair seasoned with "innuendoes" of garlic, etc., is a poetic way of saying something that I feel sure, the author did not realize she was saying. An "innuendo" (IN-yu-EN-do) is, usually, an unfavorable hint or suggestion; so the author actually tells us that this seasoning is not good.

Near, Middle And Far East Areas Defined

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The three Easts, Near, Middle and Far—where are they? What does each include?

Because they serve to break the vast Orient in to handy sections, the three designations are much used. Because they lack any broad official status, however, they remain vague and their boundaries are pushed around by both American and British writers.

The National Geographic Society, dealing in terms of logical geographical divisions, currently divides the three Easts as follows: FAR EAST: China, Mongolian Republic, Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Indochina, Thailand (Siam), Burma, Malaya and Indonesia.

MIDDLE EAST: India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Sikkim and Ceylon.

NEAR EAST: Turkey, Cyprus, Syria, Lebanon, Israel, Jordan, Egypt, Iraq, Iran and the countries of the Arabian Peninsula.

Burma To Far East

The definition of Far East, the Society observes, coincides with the listing of countries assigned by the U. S. Department of State to its Bureau of Far Eastern Affairs.

Burma, long grouped with India because of political ties, became independent in 1948, and has quite recently been transferred to the State Department's Far East grouping. The shift is logical, as the National Geographic Society sees it, since Burma alone of the countries of Asia's big southeastern peninsula had been outside the Far East designation.

The term Far East dates almost from Columbus's time. At first, it described the coasts and islands east of Singapore visited by venturesome navigators who reached the Pacific by doubling Africa's southern tip and crossing the Indian Ocean.

These coasts and islands were far east from a Europe that considered itself the center of the world. To west-coast Americans they are near west as well as Far East.

Books have been written in which the Far East is restricted to China, Korea, and Japan. Others expand the term to include virtually all Asia east of Afghanistan.

Middle East Roves

By common consent, authorities on the Orient keep south of Russia in defining Middle East and Near East. With this and the State Department's official Far East in mind, National Geographic Society cartographers have defined their geographically logical Middle East.

The Department of State has a Bureau of Near Eastern, South Asian, and African Affairs. It thus avoids the term Middle East, and avoids any precise definition of what comprises the Near East. Within this Bureau, however, the Office of South Asian Affairs deals with and only with the very countries that compose the Society's Middle East, above.

Prior to World War II, Middle East quite commonly described this region of the Indian subcontinent, although the designation was often made to reach westward to embrace Iran and the Arabian Peninsula. Newest of the three Easts, Middle East started as a generalization to describe the reaches of southern Asia between Near East and Far East.

World War II, however, greatly complicated the meaning of this term by bringing to the forefront the spreading British Middle East Command. The Command's military province expanded westward until it reached from Iran to Libya, inclusive. War communiques from as far west as Bengasi and Tripoli were labeled Middle East, even by American newspapers.

Near East Range Is Wide

The National Geographic Society's list of Near East countries corresponds closely to the State Department's grouping as represented by its Office of Near Eastern Affairs and Office of Greek, Turkish and Iranian Affairs. Greece and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, within the scope of these two offices, are not part of the Society's Near East.

In British usage, the Balkan States of southeastern Europe often have been tabbed as part of the Near East, but American practice is to align them geographically with the West.

Gold Is Reported In Saudi-Arabia

CAIRO—(AP)—Oil-rich King Ibn Saud may receive new revenues from a recently discovered gold mine in Saudi Arabia.

The Arab news agency reported in a Mecca dispatch that four mining experts and 150 laborers have extracted ore of a high gold content and "results are promising."

Destroyer Sinks; 176 Lost, 61 Saved In Ocean Disaster

"presumed dead"—only as "tentatively missing."

All the Hobson's records went down with the ship and there was no accurate way of knowing the exact complement of the ship. The Department said it believed there were 14 officers and 223 men aboard.

The crash ripped a 75-foot hole in the starboard side of the Wasp. The gash was just above the waterline, near the bow. The Wasp was making its way to New York for repairs. It was not expected to reach New York before Friday or Saturday.

Navy department aides stayed on the job around the clock working on the grim assignment of compiling the list of those reported as missing.

Worst Since War

Names were made public as soon as the next of kin were notified. An aide emphasized there might be some errors in its lists. The mid-ocean crash was probably the most disastrous naval collision since the end of World War Two.

Confusion marked early reports of the tragedy, but the Navy believes this is what happened:

The Hobson and Wasp were part of a task group enroute to the Mediterranean. In all, there were about 23 carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

Night maneuvers were being held by enroute—a normal routine.

The Hobson and the U. S. S. Rodman, another destroyer-mine-sweeper, were trailing the Wasp to help pick up men in the event any of the carrier's planes failed to land on its decks.

The hour at the scene of the collision was around midnight Saturday—8:25 p. m. Saturday Eastern Standard Time.

The Wasp, probably cutting through rough seas at 20 to 25 knots, turned into the wind to enable planes to land after a simulated night strike against other ships in the group.

Skipper Believed Lost
The Hobson, traveling at about the same speed, plowed into the carrier's forward right side.

The Rodman was not involved. It is not clear whether the Hobson sank immediately. But the Navy reported rescue operations were carried on for at least 24 hours in near-stormy weather—and probably continued Monday.

The Navy reported that 61 men were rescued. But early lists did not include the name of the Hobson's skipper, Lt. Comdr. W. J. Tierney of Philadelphia. It was feared he might have gone down with his ship.

The Hobson had a normal complement of 13 officers and 212 enlisted men. However, at the time it carried slightly more than that—14 officers and 223 men.

The weekend collision of these two famous ships—and the tragic sinking of the Hobson—was one of the worst non-combat disasters since 1942.

On Feb. 26, 1942, the USS Wuxton, a destroyer, and the Polux, a cargo ship, were lost off Newfoundland in a storm. The toll was 204 dead.

Later the same year—on April 10—the destroyer Ingraham was involved in an Atlantic collision with 218 lives lost.

Rookie Fire Warden Surrounded By Blaze In Caspian Village

CASPIAN, Mich. — (AP)—Chester Van Wieren, rookie conservation officer, had a literal baptism of fire Sunday in this Upper Peninsula village.

Van Wieren was standing beside his fire truck at the scene of a grass fire, filling back pumps for men fighting the blaze. A sudden shift in the wind caused the fire to race toward Van Wieren. He isolated his truck by spraying the grass around it and the flames swept by on either side without harming him or the vehicle.

Ridgway Succeeds Gen. Eisenhower

Clark's present post will be given to Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, now commanding general of the Third Army at Fort McPherson, Ga.

Made public was this message from the President to Ridgway: "The North Atlantic Council has requested that I nominate an American officer for appointment by the council as Supreme Allied Commander, Europe, to succeed Gen. Eisenhower. I have nominated you for that position and the council has appointed you."

"You have my highest personal esteem and best wishes as you assume this great responsibility. I know that all our people will be fully and warmly behind you as will all freedom-loving people the world over."

"I am appointing Gen. Mark W. Clark as your successor."

A second statement by the President said: "I am appointing Gen. Mark W. Clark to succeed General Matthew B. Ridgway as Commander in Chief of the U. N. Command for Korea and as Commander in Chief of the Far East Command of the U. S. Armed Forces."

"In making this appointment, I want to emphasize that Gen. Clark will continue the policies which have been so ably carried out by Gen. Ridgway with regard to the United Nations action in Korea, including if possible, the achievement of an honorable armistice."

Prison Guards Quit At Jackson; Wives Do Not Like Rioting

JACKSON, Mich. — (AP) — Two southern Michigan prison guards—from among the approximately 475 on the force—quit today, blaming last week's riot.

Both men, Walter Bucher and Reginald Bradley, said they resigned in deference to the wishes of their wives.

A third guard, 69-year-old Frank L. Patterson, retired. He had long been eligible for retirement after 43 years and eight months service. He said the riot influenced him finally to make up his mind to leave.

Two of the 13 guards held as hostages by the mutineers of cell block 15 were back on duty. The others were taking time off.

On the job again were John Holmes and James E. Chaffin.

Full Independence Granted Japanese

branded as "a new illegal act" the United States move to abolish the commission now that Japan's peace treaty is in effect.

Security Force Stays
The commission was set up as a result of the 1945 Moscow conference. Its function was to advise the Allied Supreme Commander in Japan on occupation policy.

Simultaneously the United States and Japan put into effect a security treaty by which U. S. forces will remain in the Japanese islands as long as necessary to carry on the war in Korea and to provide security for unarmed Japan against possible Communist aggression from Asia.

A part of the security arrangement is that the newly independent Japan will shortly begin to rearm for its own defense.

The United States is counting on Japan to become a pillar of security for the free world against Communist expansion in the Pacific area. To do this Japan not only will have to rearm—the treaty specifies this will be done within the purposes of the United Nations charter—but must also solve with American assistance the difficult economic problems growing out of its loss of pre-war and wartime empire.

Japan has renounced all of its far-flung conquests in Asia and the Pacific islands and been reduced to its 19th century size.

Emperor Rises Again

The end of the occupation radically alters the status of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who succeeded Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Allied commander in Japan a year ago. Once more the Emperor, remade during the occupation into a constitutional monarch, becomes the repository of Japan's national political power.

Already ambassador Robert D. Murphy, former ambassador to Belgium and one time ranking U. S. civilian official in Germany, is en route to Japan to become the number one U. S. diplomat there.

The ending of World War Two so far as the United States, Japan and other signatories of the Japanese peace treaty are concerned was hailed by leaders here as a momentous event, shadowed by the war in Korea.

Young Apache Indians Forget Tribal Chants

RUIDOSO, N. M. — (AP)—An Apache Elder says Mescalero youngsters are getting so used to the ways of white men that the tribe's ancient customs are being forgotten.

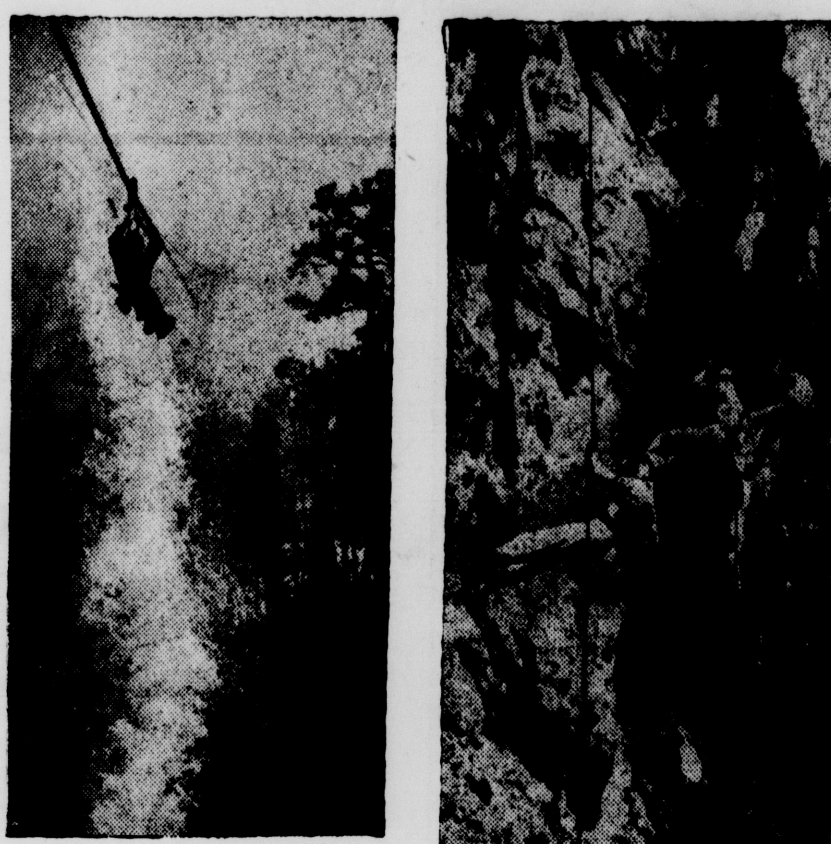

Dan Nicholas, born in a camp where early-day soldiers held his people prisoner 68 years ago, says only a few singers are left at Mescalero who remember the old chants and ceremonies.

"Nobody else is being taught," he says. "Boys are hard to persuade to learn the old dances."

Why Rangers Are Rugged---

Only specially selected Army volunteers are allowed to take the course of Ranger training at the Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga. They have to be young, tough, fearless and emotionally stable. Even so, comparatively few survive the rugged, punishing course that makes a Ranger. When those who do last it out return to their infantry units, they are just about as self-sufficient, self-reliant, cool-headed, hard-boiled as you'll ever see. Some of the reasons are pictured here.

The government's court argument of unlimited executive powers stirred a rash of weekend protests from Congress.

The government was reported waiting to learn the outcome of the case before Judge Pine before attempting to put contemplated wage-price changes into effect in the seized steel industry.

Officials already have acted to raise steel prices about $8 a ton, much less than the steel industry has said it would need to pay for government — suggested pay increases proposals. These call for a 26-cent "package," with an immediate 12½-cent hourly boost in pay rates, an additional 5 cents an hour increase by next January, other money benefits amount to 8½ cents, and the union shop.

Lovesick Man Saved From 11-Story Leap By Miami Firemen

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP)—Two strong-armed firemen snatched a lovesick young man to safety from a narrow ledge of the Venetian hotel, 11 stories above the ground.

Slight, red-haired 28-year-old James Vickery of Atlanta, Ga., crouched and inched along the foot-wide ledge, threatening to jump, until fire Lt. John Wilkes and fireman John Lundstedt risked their lives to drag him back to the roof and safety late yesterday.

While thousands watched from the street, 130 feet below, and on television, the young man resisted the coaxing of a priest, a pretty blonde, police and firemen for two hours.

A great shout went up from the throng below when the firemen grabbed Vickery as he turned momentarily, dragged him to the roof and hustled him off to a hospital.

Drought Threat To Old Cypress

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Prolonged drought has threatened to kill a tree believed to be one of the oldest living things on earth, the Tule cypress of Santa Maria del Tule, Mexico.

Reports from Mexico say the tree, known as "El Tule," is dying from lack of water after a life span stretching into thousands of years. Only a drought lasting long enough to lower the water table and dry the subsoil could harm this giant tree, which surpasses in circumference, and possibly in age, the largest Sequoias of the U. S. Pacific coast, says the National Geographic Society.

El Tule grows on dry land, not in the swamps usually associated with cypress stands, in the state of Oaxaca about 220 miles south-east of Mexico City. The immense tree, one of the world's largest, draws water from subsoil saturated in normal times by the Rio Grande del Tule, a nearby stream.

3 To 6,000 Years Old
Numerous estimates have been made of the age of El Tule, but none are provable. The tree is admittedly thousands of years old, but various experts cannot agree on any exact figure between a minimum of 3,000 years and 6,000 or more.

The giant tree has a trunk circumference of about 112 feet at a height of five feet above the ground. Twenty-eight persons, touching the fingertip of outstretched arms, barely can encircle it. The height of the old cypress is not impressive, its 140 feet being topped by numerous conifers such as the redwood, "Big Tree" Sequoia, and Douglas fir.

The spread of its branches, however, is 150 feet, providing enough shade a shelter a large part of the population of surrounding villages.

Once Worshipped
Local Indians hold the tree in reverence, as did their ancestors. Hernando Cortes and his followers, spreading the Christian faith through Mexico, cut many trees as pagan symbols, but El Tule was spared, either as a concession to local tribes, or because it was too big to tackle.

Missionaries who followed Cortes declared the monumental cypress the property of the church and an arm of God. They built a church in its shade, and Easter and Christmas fiestas are held under its spreading branches.

Scientifically, El Tule is known as a Taxodium mucronatum. The Mexican name taken from the Aztec, is "ahuehuete," pronounced "ah-we-we-te." The fact that the Aztecs coined a name for the big tree is an indication of its great age. But even the greatest ahuehuete, like other trees, cannot live without sufficient water.

Dream Becomes Fact, Burglars Hit Cafe

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — (AP) — Mrs. Johnnie Carter awakened her husband before dawn and sent him to check their cafe after dreaming it was burglarized, police reported.

Carter found thieves had taken $75 and 200 packages of cigarettes.

CHINESE WOMEN SPROUT WINGS — Chu Teh, commander-in-chief of Red China's air force, seems very happy as he is flanked by women pilots who are reported to be the first in China's air force. Many Problems At White Pine

From 25 inhabitants to 3600 in three years—a community cut out of the woods and designed as a model village — this will be the story of White Pine Village to be located 19 miles from Ontonagon in the Upper Peninsula.

The Copper Range Company recently purchased the abandoned White Pine mine and with the help of a $56,000,000 R. F. C. loan, will put the mine into operation to provide metals needed in the present defense effort.

Plans for the village are being drawn by Pace Associates of Chicago and call for the construction of 200 homes a year for the next three years on the Copper Range Company land. The village will be complete in every respect, with schools, community hall, power plant, and all other facilities needed to complete a model community.

Many Homes Needed
In addition to the planned development, it is expected that an equal number of homes will be built in the area immediately adjacent. Community facilities of the planned development will be sufficient to provide services needed for this adjacent area.

Learning of the proposed development, United Defense Fund, a United Fund agency, one of whose purposes is to assist communities affected by the defense effort, sent Dr. Ralph E. Pumphrey, to Ontonagon County. Pumphrey, a field representative for UDF, first consulted with J. A. Greene, Michigan Bell Telephone Company, Detroit, board member of UDF, for whose activities money is raised in Michigan through the United Health and Welfare Fund.

In Ontonagon County, Pumphrey met Fred Weis, head of the Ontonagon Chamber of Commerce and other leaders who have formed a committee to mobilize resources of the area to deal with the health and welfare problems. Pumphrey discussed with them problems they foresee and must deal with in the coming years and reminded them of the state and national facilities that are ready to assist them.

Following his visit to the Upper Peninsula county, Pumphrey reported to a group of state health and welfare authorities at a meeting in Lansing. The group met to learn how they could be of assistance in helping the village to adequately meet its health, nursing, education, recreation and sanitation problems.

Plan to Hire 1800
Meeting with Pumphrey were Dr. John K. Altland, Michigan Department of Health; Barrett Lyons, Social Welfare Department; Norman Borgerson, Department of Public Instruction; Marvin Tableman, Governor's office; John F. Ripplinger, Office of Hospital Survey and Construction; M. C. Meador, United Health and Welfare Fund, and Michael C. Kreider, Michigan Welfare League. The meeting was called by the Michigan Welfare League, a United Fund planning and coordinating agency that works to promote and maintain sound, adequate and effective health and welfare services throughout the state.

The Copper Range Company expects to hire 1800 employees with about 40 per cent of them commuting from nearby Bergland (pop. 600) and Ontonagon (pop. 2400). Population of the entire county which is 40 miles across is 11,000. Some estimates on the possible size of White Pine Village go beyond the 3,600 figure to 5,000.

Both the Turner Construction Company, which is doing construction work on the village, and the mine will employ Upper Peninsula labor insofar as possible.

No Racial Bars To Citizenship

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate today had a House-approved bill to erase all racial barriers to U. S. citizenship and to raise the annual immigration quota to 154,657. That is 380 more than now permitted entry.

The measure, approved by a 206 to 68 standing House vote late yesterday, would wipe out present laws excluding from naturalization Japanese, Indonesians, Burmese, Siamese and some Pacific Islanders.

The Senate judiciary committee has approved a similar measure, not yet considered by the Senate. The House measure would allow a minimum quota of 100 for eligible nations, follow the 1920 census in allotting quotas and, for the first time, grant quotas to 12 small areas.

These 12 are Burma, Cambodia, Ceylon, Indonesia, Korea, Laos, Libya, Pakistan, Somaliland, Yemen, Vietnam and the Asia-Pacific triangle area.

Other major provisions of the bill would:

1. Wipe out the law giving foreign males preference of entry in cases of marriages between citizens and non-citizens.
2. Give special preference to skilled aliens urgently needed in this country.
3. Broaden the grounds for exclusion and deportation of alien criminals.
4. Permit reformed totalitarians to enter the U. S. for residence but not for citizenship, under certain conditions.

Drive Launched On Illiteracy

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The United Nations and the Organization of American States are joining forces in the formidable job of making literacy not only available but attractive to millions of people in the Western Hemisphere.

The task has been undertaken, says the National Geographic Society, by the Latin American Bureau for Production of Fundamental Educational Materials, sponsored by OAS and UNESCO, the UN's Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. Dr. Guillermo Nannetti of OAS estimates that there are some 70 million illiterate adults in Latin America alone.

Taught With Primers
Adult reading often is taught in Latin America, as elsewhere, with primers written for children. When these are finished there is little reading matter available to thousands except provincial newspapers, a scattering of government bulletins, and a few magazines.

Such material requires too great a transition from juvenile primers for an adult who has just learned to read, and consequently he doesn't read at all. Dr. Nannetti says that in Latin America, "There is nothing to read because there are no readers, and there are no readers because there is nothing to read."

The OAS-UNESCO bureau is attempting to break the vicious circle by publishing a series of primers for adults—primers augmented by group discussion, films and posters. These books are prepared by experts in each subject covered, are written in various languages, and are attractively printed and illustrated.

Diverse Subjects
Among those already published are an introductory book entitled "Do You Want To Read?", one about Abraham Lincoln, and others on communicable diseases. In

Speedy Submarine Trigger Compact, Full Of Gadgets

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The submarine trigger—new, compact and full of gadgets—was moored here to show defense officials and Congress members the long strides being made in undersea warfare.

The Trigger, powered with the new radial-type diesel engines, has a higher speed submerged than on the surface, due primarily to the tear-drop streamlining of her hull. The speeds attained may not be disclosed.

Small Turning Circle
Shorter than present fleet submarines, including the guppy class boats, and with a different hull design, the Trigger can maneuver better than the long, narrow-hulled craft. A small turning circle is highly important to a submarine in both offensive and evasive operation.

Skipper of the Trigger, which was commissioned at New London, Conn., last month, is Comdr. Edward L. Beach. He was executive officer of the former Trigger which sank 27 enemy ships and damaged 13 others in Pacific operations in World War II. The old Trigger was lost after Beach was assigned to another sub.

Topside, the new Trigger looks much like the guppy boats except for a wider beam and shorter length.

But below, the fact that she is an entirely new type, instead of converted, is noticeable immediately. The engine room is a marvel of compactness, even for submarines. The fact that the four radial engines stand vertically, instead of horizontally, makes it possible to house the power plant in substantially less space than in other fleet submarines.

No Conning Tower
Although she has a superstructure like guppy class and the older submarines, the conning tower no longer exists as a tower.

Now the skipper does not have to scramble up a ladder to reach the conning tower when the submarines surfaces, and leap down when it is ready to dive.

The surfaced and submerged command post, including the per-scopes, is located on the main deck. Hard by that nerve center are diving controls, the helmsman and planesmen. All this means the trigger can execute a diving or surfacing operation just a little faster than other submarines.

Although substantially shorter than the approximate 300 feet of other fleet submarines, the Trigger displaces 1,600 tons, about the same as the others, accountable in part to a width several feet greater than other craft. She also carries about the same complement of men and officers.

Quarters Roomier
Better and roomier crew accommodations are provided. The main crew quarters, located aft, have bunks, fitted with new-sponge rubber mattresses, for 52 men.

The Trigger will remain at the naval gun factory here until May 2. The Navy said the purpose of the visit is to give senior officers in navy bureaus, who work in planning submarine construction, a chance to look over the new type boat. Other government officials also have been invited aboard for inspection.

From Washington, the Trigger will go to Annapolis for a brief call, then return to New London.

Law Won't Let Man Desert His Family

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.

When a man gets tired of his wife and finds a pretty young face, he often tells his wife he wants a divorce and, if she will consent, he leaves her to take care of herself and their children. Fortunately, the law provides for the care of such cases but few women are aware of it. This is true of the wife who wrote:

(Q) "My husbands wants a divorce to marry another woman. We have been married for 17 years and have 3 children, ranging in age from 10 to 15 years. My husband wants me to get a job but I haven't been well and I doubt if I could work and take care of my family. Isn't there some place I could go to get help?"

(A) Of course there is some place you can go to get help for yourself and your children. Our courts will quickly put a stop to your husband's walking out on you and leaving you to get along the best you can.

When your husband married you, he made the promise to take care of you and any children you might have. That promise is just as good today as it was the day you were married. Your husband may have forgotten it but the law has not.

Go to your minister and explain to him what your husband wants to do. He can make arrangements for you to take the matter to court and get either a legal separation or a divorce. In either case, your husband would be obligated to support you and the children, whether he likes it or not.

Your children are at an age when they need a father as well as a mother. Is there no way to persuade your husband to give up this other woman and settle down to his role as husband to you and father to his children?

If you refuse to give him a divorce, the other woman may lose interest in him. Under such conditions, the problem might solve itself. If, however, things have gone so far that there is no hope of reconciliation, try a legal separation for a year or two before you consent to a divorce. During that time, your husband may have a change of heart.

As for your working to free your husband of his responsibilities, that is ridiculous. Even if you were in the best of health, there would still be the home to take care of and children who still need you at home. Only if your husband were living at home and still needed your help should you consider working. You should never sacrifice yourself and your children to make things easy for the other woman.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.

Cedar Fence Posts Help Halt Erosion Of Michigan Shores

CASEVILLE, Mich.—(AP)—Old-fashioned cedar fenceposts—the kind used to fence in cattle—are helping to keep Michigan's shoreline from slipping away.

Cottage owners of northern Saginaw Bay are turning to fenceposts as a cheap weapon in the war against beach erosion.

The cottage owners are making a last-ditch fight to save their property. Swelling waters of the Great Lakes have been chopping away at the state's sprawling shoreline. The lakes are expected to rise this summer to the highest level in 76 years.

How to stop beach erosion—caused by wind and wave action—has puzzled conservation experts and state engineers.

The state water resources commission last fall surveyed critical shoreline areas. The commission's engineers planned to conduct experiments to help shoreline property owners control erosion. The state legislature this spring denied money for the experiments.

Now property owners are conducting their own experiments.

They are piling posts, planks, rocks, cement bags, old railroad ties—anything they can find—on to their beaches in an effort to check the relentless water.

Many are turning to old-fashioned cedar fenceposts to do the job. They force them deep into beach sand at the water's edge, and place the posts close together to provide an almost-solid fence.

Some property owners are hiring crews and doing their own work. Others turn to contractors like George Beadle of Caseville. Beadle has pioneered in designing odd-shaped jetties made out of fenceposts.

"The idea," he explains, "is to break up waves before they reach the shore and to trap sand carried by the waves. In this way new beach area can be built up even during storms which used to eat away gobs of beach."

The posts are driven into beach sand with the aid of a high-pressure jet of water. Once they are sunk, beach sand holds them in place.

First of these cedar-post jetties were erected last fall. It caught the eye of Dale W. Granger, engineer who headed a state survey party.

He said it was "probably the cheapest construction observed, and seemed to be doing a reasonably good job."

Most previous types of jetties cost about $20 per foot or beach frontage. The cedar-post type costs about $3 per foot.

Some cottage owners, like Duncan McKichan of Bad Axe, are using old railroad ties instead of fenceposts. Harold A. Young of Saginaw used 2 x 8 planks.

Varner Heads MSC Extension

Durward Varner

Durward B. Varner has been named new director of the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State College to succeed C. V. Ballard, who will retire.

Appointment was made by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of the institution, Karl H. McDonel, board secretary, announced.

Varner will assume his new duties Sept. 16, 1952. Ballard will continue actively in his present post until his retirement date, when he will begin a one-year terminal leave.

Varner served as extension specialist in agricultural economics at M. S. C. since May, 1949.

The new extension director was born January 1, 1917, in Cottonwood, Texas, and graduated from Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, College Station, Tex., in 1940 with a degree in agricultural economics. He joined the staff of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, Tex., in a junior executive training position and remained there until called to active army duty in August, 1941.

During World War II, Varner spent 54 months on active duty, rising from the rank of second lieutenant to lieutenant colonel. Upon separation from military service in 1945, Varner joined the staff of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas as assistant dean of students. In June, 1946, he entered the University of Chicago to pursue graduate study in a research program sponsored jointly by the Quartermaster General, United States Army, and the Chicago institution.

He received a master of science degree in agricultural economics from the University of Chicago in the spring of 1949, and he is on temporary leave of absence to complete the dissertation work for his Ph. D. degree at that institution.

Since he has been on the Michigan State College staff, Varner has addressed more than 60,000 persons in 10 states on the general subject of public policy problems affecting agriculture. He also has written many articles and publications.

Ballard has been with the college since 1915 and has directed the Cooperative Extension Service since 1948. He has a long-time record of service to the state, starting as the first county agricultural agent in Dickinson county, and one of the first in Michigan.

New Zealand, deep in the southern hemisphere, abounds in fish and trees imported from North America, says the National Geographic Magazine. A natural shortage of game fish resulted in the "planting" of brown and rainbow trout from Canada in the streams. Forest depletion called for new timber, and such trees as were brought in to build up redwood Douglas fir and Monterey pine serves.

Truman Needs Censor, Says Michigan Solon

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) proposes the appointment of a $30,000-a-year censor to advise the president "as to the accuracy or inaccuracy of statements he makes, before he makes them."

He clearly indicated he was referring to President Truman's statement at a news conference this week about an ultimatum to Premier Stalin. The statement later was "clarified" by the White House.

Hoffman said an "advisory censor" could eliminate the necessity of straightening out the President's offhand remarks.

Farmers Pollinate Trees With Shotgun

PENTICTON, B. C.—(AP)—Fruit farmers in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley now fertilize their trees by shotgun.

From about 10 feet, the marksman fires a standard 12 gauge shotgun. The pollen then settles on the blossoms and fertilizes them.

Lawrence Bartlett, distributor for the pollen in B. C., said about five times as much pollen is being used this year as last. It follows relaxation of regulations which formerly made it difficult to get the pollen because of the disease hazard. The pollen is gathered mostly in California and Oregon.

COMMERICAL FISHERMEN OF DELTA COUNTY

The Walleye Protective Association is well aware of the part that leaders of the Michigan Fish Producers Association, large netting interests and some kindred industries, have played in the recent successful efforts to sabotage the trolling areas provision of Senate Bill # 282.

We recall various meetings with leaders of the local commercial groups who agreed to "net free trolling areas" for the benefit of sportsmen and the elimination of friction between sportsmen and commercial men. In 1949 the Garden Peninsula group went on record as approving this measure in one of their meetings, while the Escanaba group did likewise in a Daily Press announcement in 1950.

At the same time, local commercial men asked for a 50 ft. limitation on pond nets—this was added to our bill to help the local commercial industry.

When Senate Bill # 282 was signed by Governor Williams on April 10, 1952, it contained the pond net provision as asked for by local commercial men, but, a "joker" trolling area provision—the May 21st to Sept. 10th date as originally agreed upon had been changed to read "July 1st to Sept. 10th", which as fish buyers know is little aid to trolls.

We have reason to believe that the average established local commercial fisherman is agreeable to the original date for net-free trolling areas. Accordingly, we are, in a spirit of fairness, asking all commercial men to refrain from setting nets during the period of May 21st to Sept. 10th in the following Delta County waters: In Big Bay de Noc, north of a line drawn from Porcupine Pt. to Valentine Pt. In Little Bay de Noc, within the area enclosed by a line drawn from Saunders Pt. to Squaw Pt. to the mouth of the Gladstone Yacht Harbor. In Little Bay de Noc and Green Bay, between the westerly shore and a line drawn from Portage Pt. 1-1/2 miles south, then in a general southerly direction parallel to the shore line and 1-1/2 miles out from shore to the point where township line between town 37N and 38N, R23W intersect, thence to the shore.

Farmer Who Battled Wild Tiger Awarded Carnegie Hero Medal

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Sixteen persons have been awarded Carnegie hero medals, one of them a young Illinois farmer who rescued a 58-year-old man from a mauling by a wild tiger that escaped from a zoo.

Two other heroes won posthumous awards from the Carnegie hero fund commission, eight states and the District of Columbia figured in the list announced Friday. Pennsylvania received four, and Illinois and New York three each. The Illinois farmer, Harold F. Keith of near Mason City, fought off a 400-pound tiger which broke out of a pen at a Mason City private zoo.

The infuriated animal had knocked a man down and had one of his legs in its jaws when Keith grabbed a four-foot long automobile drive shaft and struck the tiger repeatedly in the head, stunning it with the help of another bystander who came to Keith's assistance.

American Communist Party Part And Parcel Of Soviet Conspiracy

The American Communist party is part and parcel of a world-wide Soviet conspiracy to enslave and dominate mankind, it was stated here yesterday by Congressman Charles E. Potter in an address at the 14th district VFW encampment banquet in the high school gymnasium.

Exhibiting a pamphlet which he said was the "bible" of the Communist party, he read from it the Communist oath which pledges a party member to irrevocable "defense of the Soviet Union."

On basis of this oath and on the purpose of Communism as defined in the booklet, Congressman Potter said, it is clearly impossible for an American to be a member of the Communist party and remain a loyal citizen of this country.

It is folly for us, he continued to spend 67 billion dollars and draft our finest young manhood to battle Communism abroad and yet remain indifferent to the menace at home.

Treachery Within
At the end of World War II, he said, the ratio of people under Communist control to the rest of mankind was one to nine. In seven years, he pointed out, this ratio has been reversed to five persons under Red domination to only three in the so-called free nations.

This vast change, he stated, was not brought about by military conquest but by treachery from within. Rumanians delivered Rumania to Russia, Czechs handed Czechoslovakia to the Kremlin, and the Chinese gave Stalin control of China.

The Communist aim in the United States is identical to the procedure followed in other lands, with native Americans delivering our country into the hands of Soviet Russia, he said.

In support of his warning on the danger within, Congressman Potter cited some of the findings and results of a recent Congressional investigation of Communism in the Detroit area.

"We found a handful of Communists union officers dictating the policy of the vast Ford union," he said, and the committee unearthed many Red cells active throughout the state, including 14 in the Upper Peninsula.

Although the committee lacked power to prosecute, its disclosures shocked public opinion and resulted in the UAW-CIO ousting the Ford union officials and taking over control of the union, the speaker said.

The fact that a few Communists in key spots can influence the policy of thousands is one of the greatest menaces of the Soviet internal program, he pointed out. He cited the example of the Screen Writers Guild in Hollywood where for two years seven persons made decisions and dictated the policy of over 200 members.

The Communist party member, he stated, is highly trained and disciplined, and his fidelity to his party will drive him to inhuman actions on behalf of Soviet Russia.

Praises VFW
The speaker praised the Veterans of Foreign Wars for their activity against Communism, and said that public opinion in the United States is gradually catching up with the VFW.

It is not enough, however, to comprehend the international menace of Communism, he said; we must understand what Americanism fundamentally means.

Declaring that a new concept of government in the world was instituted as a result of the American Revolution, the speaker said that basically Americanism signifies one predominant belief—that every individual has certain inalienable rights which are God-given.

He urged members of the VFW and its auxiliary to preach this basic principle of Americanism to their friends and neighbors and to awaken the public even more to the Communist menace within.

Draftees Needed Only By The Army In July; Call Out For 31,000

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Army is the only service requiring draftees in June and July. The defense department issued a call for 10,000 men for that service in June and 31,000 in July.

It said also that about 31,000 more will be called up in both August and in September. April and May calls were 19,000 each month.

The Marine Corps, which has been taking draftees since last August, will need none in the next few months to build toward its authorized strength of 238,000. The Air Force and Navy have been relying entirely on volunteers.

The June and July quotas will raise to 954,430 the number of men called up by selective service since the draft was revived in September, 1950. The Army has called 873,000 of these, and the Marines 81,430.

Lion Cub Sent To Zoo; Too Strong

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (AP) — "The cub is six months old now and doesn't know its own strength."

For this reason, Mrs. Sidney Lewin thinks she made a wise decision in sending the little lion to the zoo. She said Sheba was given to her son, Donn, a professional wrestler, while he was "campaigning" in Texas in December.

Donn and his wife, Harriet, used to take Sheba out for walks on a leash. At home, the "kitten" would play with their German shepherd dog. But Mrs. Lewin thought the cub was getting too big to play with her 18-month-old grandson.

That recent American League game in which Bob Cain of the Browns and Bob Feller of the Indians pitched one-hit pitching performances brings to mind the greatest pitched duel in major league annals. It took place between Fred Toney of the Reds and Jim Vaughn of the Cubs on May 2, 1917. For nine full innings, neither allowed a hit, but the Reds broke through with a single and a safe bunt in the 10th to win 1-0. Although representing a double no-hitter over the regulation distance, the complete game is recorded as tying the low-hit total for two teams.

The Central League basketball conference recently welcomed a new member to its ranks. Eben takes the place of Powers-Spalding as the latter team dropped out to join the Little Six conference, which is a more natural circuit for the P-S High School. Speaking of Eben, Leo Brunelle of Bark River, president of the Central League, said: "If you want to learn something about track and field, just state a couple of events with Eben. I know from experience." The new Central League entry was welcomed at the annual Central basketball banquet in Nahma recently.

Karl Parker, former Brimley High School cage mentor now coaching at Kingsley in Lower Michigan, knows the problem facing Upper Peninsula high school basketball teams seeking state tournament titles downstate. At the Gladstone Lions Club basketball recognition dinner the other night he put in a plug for the U. P. Sports Writers Association bid for a state finals tournament in the Upper Peninsula. "I'd like to impress on Michigan school officials downstate the tremendous travel difficulties which annually face U. P. regional tournament winners when they take off for state honors," said Parker whose Brimley Bays were recently the toast of Michigan in Class D circles.

American Olympic Chances

Not So Encouraging Now

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Any suggestion that American athletes might have an easy time in the Olympic games next summer was vehemently denied in all languages, including Scandinavian, at the rain-swept Penn Relays. Two Scandinavians and a trio of Canadians had a lot to say about the outcome of the meet and the outlook for the future in the big carnival which was considered extra-important because this is an Olympic year. Dennis Johansson, an exchange student from Finland at Purdue, made three of America's best runners look a little silly in the Benjamin Franklin Invitation mile. Big Roland Nilsson of Sweden, a University of Michigan student, easily won the discus throw and took second in the shot put. And three Canadians running on Michigan relay teams completely dominated the longer college relays.

Spartans Barely Out

Of Big Ten Cellar

EAST LANSING (AP)—One weak little run was all that prevented Michigan State from being in the Western Conference baseball cellar today. After losing to defending champion Ohio State 4-1 Friday, the Spartans managed their first win by splitting a double-header with Illinois Saturday.

Michigan State was snowed under 12-1 the first game as two pitchers allowed 19 hits including a homer and a triple. MSC pitcher Roger Howard, who blanked Illinois in the nightcap, was the hero of the Michigan State 1-0 win.

Jack Risch singled home the one run in the third inning after two singles and a walk loaded the bases.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (AP)—Traverse City, Mich., was chosen as site of the 1953 convention of the Central United States Ski Association which yesterday named three Michigan men as officers.

Merritt Cook of Chicago was elected president at the group's annual meeting. Lorenz Pinski of LaCrosse, Wis., and Walter Bietila of Kingsford, Mich., were named first and second vice presidents, respectively.

New directors named include Burton Boym of Negaunee, Mich., and Donald Orr of Traverse City. The competitive schedule approved for 1953 includes:

- Feb. 1—Brier Hill at Detroit and Central U. S. Ski Association jumping championships at Oconomowoc, Wis.
- Feb. 7-8—Intercollegiate four events, Houghton, Mich.
- Feb. 7-8—Sugar Loaf at Traverse City, junior downhill and slalom championships.
- Feb. 21-22—Ishpeming, Mich., cross country and jumping.
- Other meets also were scheduled for Feb. 8 at Ironwood, Mich., and March 1 at Iron Mountain, Mich.

Tiger Shutout Talk Is Not Funny To Indians

DETROIT (AP)—Apparently Charlie Gehringer wasn't kidding. And neither was Red Rolfe.

It sounded pretty funny when general manager Gehringer cracked after his Detroit Tigers had lost eight straight games at the season's outset:

"Maybe the only way we're going to win one is for a Tiger pitcher to hurl a shutout."

But today the pennant-contending Cleveland Indians don't think Gehringer was funny at all.

What Happened?

The Tigers rocketed out of their slump Saturday and Sunday against the Indians—and Tiger pitchers hurled two straight shutouts at the Indians, 14-0 and 1-0. The Tigers hadn't won a game 'til then.

The victories lifted the Tigers out of the American League cellar into seventh place.

And Manager Rolfe was dead serious as he reviewed the pitching prowess of his Art Houtteman and Ted Gray and the 23 hits his athletes got in two days:

"Listen, we could be tough—maybe even contenders—if we keep getting the pitching we should," said Rolfe, long renowned as a conservative with a distaste for climbing out on the limb.

"All we'd need would be four or five runs a game and we could be up there. We've got the pitching to win the close games," said the red-haired one, who got a 100 per cent vote of confidence from his players last week after they lost their eighth game.

"If we can do a little better than break even on our eastern trip, we'll be all right."

Trucks Tuesday

Red plans to start Virgil Trucks, the third member of his big three, against the Boston Red Sox Tuesday in the road opener. The Tigers play ten games in the East.

Full Slate Of Big Ten Games

CHICAGO (AP)—Fifteen conference games, including another full round of doubleheaders Saturday, are scheduled this weekend as undefeated Northwestern and Michigan lead the Big Ten baseball race into its second week.

Northwestern downed Indiana 6-4 Friday and then swept a double-header from Purdue Saturday 8-3 and 6-3.

Michigan also registered three opening victories by walloping Illinois 20-7, then sweeping a twin bill from Ohio State, defeating champion, 15-3 and 3-0. Marv Wisniewski, 17, accomplished the seven-inning shutout with a one-hitter.

A total of 50 errors was charged in Saturday's five doubleheaders with Ohio State making 10 of them.

Wisconsin, with a 2-1 record, invades Northwestern for a single game Friday and a doubleheader Saturday. Michigan is at Iowa (1-2) for a three-game set.

The standings:

Stranahan Wins Golf Tournament

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Frank Stranahan is not superstitious, but the Toledo, Ohio golfer thinks a pair of red, white and blue shoes may have helped him win the North and South amateur tournament for the third time.

After Stranahan had polished off Frank Strafaci, Flushing, N. Y., 8 and 87, in the 36-hole finals on Saturday, he explained the origin of the patriotic pumps he wore during the week.

The shoes, made especially for the U. S. Ryder Cup team in its matches here with the British last fall, were given to him by Ryder cupper Jackie Burke, Texas professional, after the two had played in a recent exhibition.

"The first day I wore them I shot a 67," said Frank. The "lucky" shoes didn't hamper him in the tournament. In closing out Strafaci on the 11th hole of the afternoon round, he was four under par for 29 holes.

He put on one of the most amazing long putting exhibitions seen in 52 years of North and South history. Sixty, 50 and 20-foot putts helped him build up his big margin, largest for a finals in 10 years.

Gray couldn't beat the Clevelanders last year, losing three times. But since then he armed himself with a new overhand curve ball and the Indians got only six hits off the 27-year-old speedball Sunday.

On Saturday it was Houtteman, Gray's hometown buddy from right in Detroit and his road roommate, who tamed the Indians with one hit.

Harry (Suitcase) Simpson lined the single into left field with two out in the ninth to spoil the no-hit bid.

Here's one for the statistic-happy baseball fan: The Indians have a 3-3 record against left-handers and 1-5 against right-handed pitching. Of course Houtteman is the only high-handed conqueror.

Tigers Are Threat To Move Up In American Standings

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Bosom buddies Art Houtteman and Ted Gray have put the Detroit Tigers back on the right track.

The Tigers still were on the fringe of last place in the American League today but the good folks of Detroit don't expect them to hover in that vicinity long.

Detroit's resurgence began behind closed doors in the visitors' dressing room at Chicago's Comiskey Park Wednesday.

The Tigers, smarting from eight straight defeats, were reported to be at odds with Manager Red Rolfe.

Fred Hutchinson, veteran pitcher and player representative, called the team together for a conference and chased Rolfe out of the room.

The result was a rousing vote of confidence for the skipper.

Houtteman and Gray have demonstrated emphatically that the Tigers meant what they said.

Six-Hitter
Art launched the comeback drive Saturday with a spectacular 13-0, one-hit victory over the Cleveland Indians. Gray followed his roommate's gem with a 1-0, six-hit triumph over the tough Tribe yesterday.

Ironically, Cleveland's Harry Simpson was the "villain" and "goat" in the two games.

Simpson spoiled Houtteman's bid for fame at the eleventh hour. The Indians outfielder singled with two out in the ninth inning to smash the no-hit bid.

Yesterday, a first-inning error by Simpson led to the lone run of the game.

Pat Mullin singled with two out in the first inning against Mike Garcia. Vic Wertz followed with a drive to center. Simpson tried to pick it up on the bounce in order to cut Mullin down at third but the ball slipped behind him and Mullin scored.

Rained Out
Rain curtailed activity in both leagues. In the American League, rain washed out a doubleheader between the Athletics and Boston Red Sox and a single game between New York and Washington.

In the National League, a doubleheader between Boston and Philadelphia and a single game between Brooklyn and New York were postponed.

The Chicago White Sox cooled off the St. Louis Browns in the only other action in the American League. The White Sox tripped the Browns, 7-6, in 14-innings in the opener of a doubleheader. The Sox led, 3-1, in the second game which was called after five innings because of darkness. The game will be completed in Chicago July 3.

Minnie Minoso singled home Nelson Fox with Chicago's winning run in the opened. Ed Robinson homered with one on the ninth for Chicago to send the game into overtime. Harry Dorish permitted only one hit over the last five innings and gained credit for his first victory.

Reds In Second
The surprising Cincinnati Reds snapped their second-place tie with Chicago in the National League by beating Pittsburgh in a twin bill, 8-2 and 1-0, while the Cubs won a single game from the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-3.

Ken Raffensberger breezed to his third straight victory in the opener for Cincinnati. Dutch Hiller bested Howie Pollet in the thrilling nightcap duel. Roy McMillan drove home Bob Borkowski with the winning run in the ninth inning on a fly ball. The defeats extended Pittsburgh's losing streak to nine games.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, highly publicized Cardinal rookie, held the Cubs to three hits in seven innings but blew up in the eighth and yielded four runs. Frank Baumholtz, the league's top batter, climaxed the rally with a three-run double. Joe Hatten was the winner.

Team Bids Fail In ABC Tourney

MILWAUKEE — (AP)—The bids of three more strong teams to climb to the top of the heap in the regular team event of the American Bowling Congress tournament failed last night.

Stroh's Bohemian Beers of Detroit, the defending team all events champions; L. and H. Coal, one of Philadelphia's strongest combines, and Faber Cement Blocks, Teaneck, N. J., found the going too rough. As a result, the 3,115 posted April 18 by E. and B. Beers of Detroit, looks bigger every day.

Stroh's managed to make the top ten with 2,973 on games of 927, 969 and 1,077. The total put them in eighth place. Pete Carter set the pace with 638 while the other scores included Tony Lindemann's 602, Buzz Fazio's 580, Lee Jouglaard's 577 and Ed Lubanski's 576.

L. and H. Coal shot 2,684 on 961, 894 and 829.

The Faber quintet had 875, 911 and 897 for 2,683.

Yesterday Richard Reitter of Columbus, combined a team count of 612, doubles of 724 and singles of 617 for 1,953 to tie Detroit's George Young for second place in the all events.

Baseball Briefs

DETROIT—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians aren't whooping it up today. When the Tribe bowed to the southpaw slants of Detroit's Ted Gray 1-0 yesterday, it marked the third time in four games they had been shut out.

During that time, the Indians have made only 17 hits in 119 times at bat for a .143 average, while their big gun, Luke Easter, has been held hitless.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Saul Rogovin, the American League's earned run leader in 1951, finds himself with a 4.24 ERA today. The big Chicago righthander was belted for six runs by the St. Louis Browns yesterday. Rogovin had a 2.78 mark last year.

Philadelphia—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics lead the American League in at least one department today—hitting into double plays. The slow footed Dykesmen (average age, 32) have been knocked off 17 times via the two-for-one route.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The New York Yankees, the once-mighty sluggers of the American League, have hit only two homers so far this season—by outfielders Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer.

The Cleveland Barons hold the American Hockey League playoff records for most overtime games played—20, and the most extra period wins—13.

No-Hit Spoiler Was First Off Houtteman

DETROIT—(AP)—Harry (Suitcase) Simpson of the Cleveland Indians will probably never forget the first time he ever got a base hit off Art Houtteman of the Detroit Tigers.

Simpson's low, whistling single into left field came with two out in the ninth inning and was the only hit off Houtteman in Saturday's 13-0 Tiger victory.

Ex-soldier Houtteman, nonchalant and clubbing in the clubhouse afterwards, said he felt no bitterness about the no-hit spoiler.

ing single, which came with the Indians hopelessly behind.

"Simpson was up there to hit, regardless of what the score was," said the 24-year-old righthander whose clutch pitch is a sweeping sidearm crossfire.

Fast Sinker
"I threw him a sinking fast ball on the outside. It was a strike or it was close to being one. And he hit it."

Simpson was a long-ball hitter in the minors in 1949 and 1950. His weakness was reported to be an outside pitch.

But this year he altered his batting style, went into a crouch, and began rifling the ball right through second base when he could. His spoiler single streaked head-high between third and shortstop.

As a rookie last year, Simpson never got to face Houtteman. Art was in the Army. He was inducted shortly after he won 19 games in 1950. He received a medical discharge early this year.

In their first meeting this year, Simpson grounded out three times and battered a fly to deep center. Houtteman lost that game 3-2 April 20 for his second defeat.

Threw 80 pitches
On Saturday Simpson grounded out twice and fled high to right field the third time. After his single on the fourth trip, Bobbie Avila popped up to second baseman Jerry Priddy to end the game.

Tiger infielders and outfielders didn't get a single hard chance. Third baseman George Kell threw badly to allow Jim Fridley to reach first and Easter walked, both in the second inning. They were the only batters besides Simpson to reach first.

Houtteman threw only 80 pitches to 29 batters. The Indians hit the ball beyond the infield seven times.

The Tigers, who hadn't won a game before Saturday, came with ease in one run of equaling their previous accumulated total. The club was within five games of the longest opening-season defeat string in major league history.

It was Houtteman's first impressive home town performance since his only child, seven months old Cheryl, was killed in an auto accident April 3.

For the second consecutive year the U. S. tennis team will meet Japan in the first round tie of the American Zone competition for the Davis Cup.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—(AP)—There never was much doubt that Sugar Ray Robinson did better than most when they were handing out brains to the prize fighters. Now it's official.

The middleweight champ had his choice of visiting Paris in the spring or staying here and getting himself cuffed around by Joey Maxim, the rugged ruler of the cruiser-weights. He chose Paris.

It would have made a great payday for everybody, probably about $100,000 for each fighter. There is no ring attraction in sight to match it. But Robinson doesn't need the money, and he was smart enough to realize the dice were loaded. Maxim, packing a 15-pound weight advantage, might have been even money to slip Sugar the first knockout of his great career.

The man to pity is Doc Kearns, who in the twilight of a colorful career brought Maxim out of a studied mediocrity, guided him to the title and within reaching distance of a golden harvest. It would have been a fair trade to watch Jack Dempsey's old pilot playing with that kind of money again.

Warren Giles, the new president of the National League, should have been given a year's cooling-off period between handing in his resignation as president of the Cincinnati Reds and assuming his present post.

Under the Talbot plan, the popular and extremely able executive would have been required to sit through a full schedule of games with nothing to do for his salary except munch peanuts and learn to admire umpires for the truly fine job they turn in under trying conditions.

It would have been a tough course for a man who had watched the knights in blue rob his Reds all those years, but a man of Giles' caliber would have mastered it, and would not, for example, have announced that he had plastered a heavy fine on Umpire Scotty Robb for shoving inoffensive little Eddie Stanky.

It seemed difficult the other day to get Manager Bucky Harris of Washington interested in talking about his own ball club. He said yes, absently, that a couple of his Cuban pitchers were doing very well. He confessed, after a brief pause, that he had a pretty fair first team. But his mind didn't seem to be in it, and he kept staring out where the Yankees were holding infield drill.

"Look at that Phil Rizzuto," Bucky finally exploded. "Isn't that boy something."

It would take several thousand words to sum up everything the pilot of the Senators conveyed so briefly about the little shortstop genius of the World Champions. Rival managers would name the Scooter the most valuable player in the league without a dissenting vote.

Intimates of Branch Rickey swear that the inventor of the rookie assembly line has done it again—that he already has assembled under the Pittsburgh banner the biggest and finest collection of future greats controlled by any club in either big league. Said one baseball figure, fresh from a swing around the Mahatma's new domain:

"I'm not fooling you—he'll have the Pirates up in the race within another year or two. I never saw as many wonderful kids before in my life. I don't know yet what it is that Branch has the others don't have, but it's something."

Prep Cage Clinic Set For December

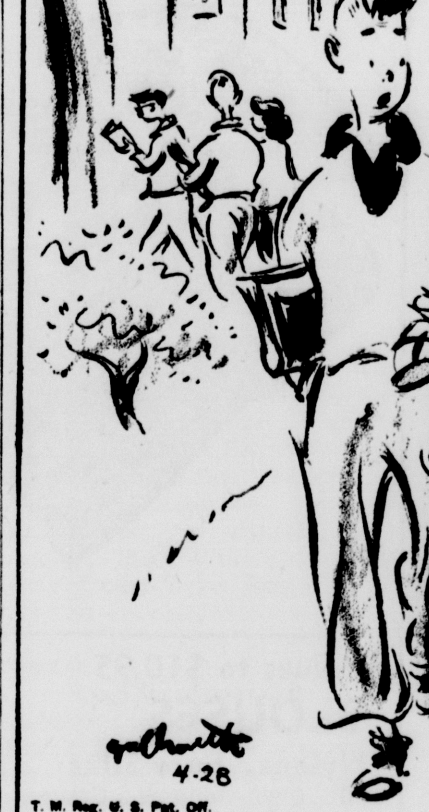

EAST LANSING — (AP)—A basketball clinic for high school coaches will be held in conjunction with the fourth annual Spartan basketball classic at Michigan State College in December.

The college announced that Notre Dame, Kansas State and UCLA will be the teams playing in the classic with Michigan State this year.

UCLA will meet Michigan State and Kansas State will play Notre Dame Dec. 19. UCLA and Notre Dame and Kansas State and Michigan State will be matched Dec. 20.

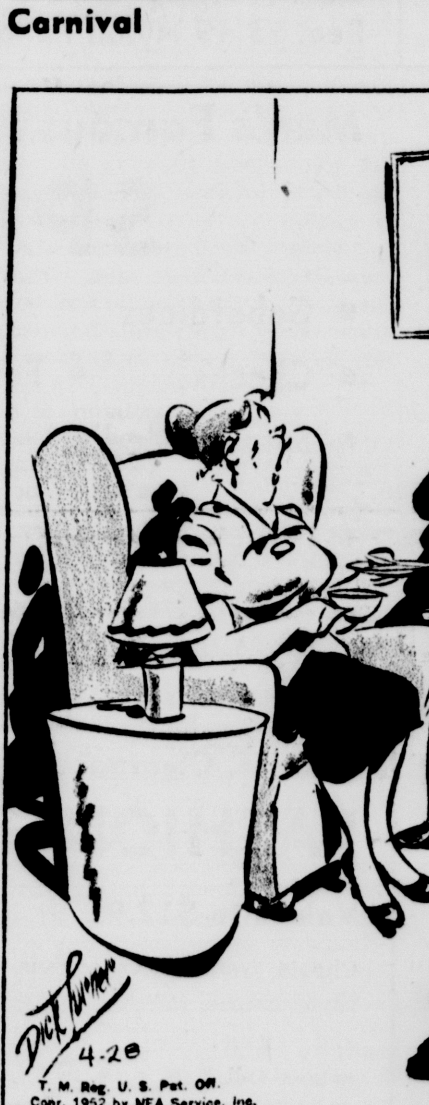

In 63 years of football competition, the Notre Dame gridders have won 399 games, lost 83 and tied 32.

Ruark Boasts Of Navy Crew

By ROBERT C. RUARK

FT. WORTH — Whenever I am in Ft. Worth I am sure of one thing, and that is that I will get a free haircut. This is because the barber, a Mr. James Right, is used to getting no money from me for his service with the clippers. I've had him trained for 10 years.

The story is that in an old dead war, Mr. Wright was a gunner's mate third class on a rickety old bucket and I was his boss. GM 3/C Wright made a pile of money on the file ship Eli Whitney, cutting his fellow hoodlums' hair in the off-watches, but he cut the boss's locks gratis, or else the boss was apt to become cross and deny Brother Wright the right to help 28 other demons drive the boss crazy.

It was not the submarines or the airplanes that sprinkled my sparse curls with gray, and aged me well before my time. It was Brother Wright and the 28 assistant demons who were entrusted to papa's tender loving care.

Crew of Geniuses

I was always very proud of my boys. If the word passed that somebody had slugged the shore patrol or stolen a taxicab or busted up a bar or contracted some rare, odious disease or bizarre ailment, I never had to ask which ship the malefactors came off of. I knew. It had to be a member of the Eli Whitney, out to make papa proud and happy.

To say that my boys were geniuses would be putting it very thinly. Who else, but a member of my crew would think of stealing the only adding machine in Tunisia from the French big boy, LeClerc, causing international relations to tremble and the war to hang in abeyance while we shook down the ship? Who else but a Whitney man would help the French celebrate Bastille Day by getting mixed up in a parade with 5,000 Senegalese? Who but one of mine would think to take apart the Arab's taxicab, and throw the grand piano out the window, and beat up the MP lieutenant?

My boys were the gay, athletic type who always sought wholesome sport on an afternoon in port. That is why the whole starboard watch, dressed in natty whites thickly smeared with blood, was happily engaged one day in Gibraltar by light-heartedly throwing the British garrison troops down a steep hill. Then they would fight their way up to the top, and start the game all over again.

I will never forget one tough morning in Gib, when the skipper knocked on my door and requested aid.

Competent Seamen

"The Chinese cook," he said, "is chasing one of your men around the messroom with a toasting fork, and I want a witness to the murder."

But at sea and in trouble they were the greatest collection of brave and competent men I met during the war, and I do believe they had a great chunk of that elusive thing called morale. There was never a dirty gun or a sloppy watch or dirty quarters, and they settled their troubles on the hatch without coming whining to papa.

I never pulled any rank ashore, and would take as many drinks with them as I could control, which was considerably less than their quota. But on the ship I was strictly mister and any newcomer to the gang who tried any cute little tricks on the boss got his head caved in by one of the old hands. In a solid year I never caught one of them in a lie, and when they fouled up they would come sheepishly up and recommend their own punishment.

They were tough and full of the devil but they belonged to me and there'll never be another crew just like them. It was nice to see the barber again, but I must say the years have calmed him considerably since that afternoon in Casablanca.

Assets Increased By Ford Foundation

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Ford Foundation, richest public trust in the world, increased its assets by $9,909,702 in 1951, a financial statement showed today.

The resources of the fund, set up to advance "peace, freedom and human welfare," rose to a total of $509,587,957 from $492,678,255.

This was a rise of 2 per cent in the foundation's first year's operation.

Bulk of the added wealth was an unspent $8,135,504 portion of the foundation's $30,909,798 income for the year from 3,098,908 shares of class-A stock in the Ford Motor company.

The income from these stocks, given to the foundation by the Ford family, indicated that they paid just over $10 a share last year.

Each share is valued on the foundation's books at $135.

Besides the unspent part from this income, the foundation also picked up $1,774,198 more assets by selling property at prices higher than those carried on its books.

First marriage in the White House was March 11, 1811, and United Justice Thomas Todd, of the Supreme Court, and Lucy Washington.
